

Independence in My Perspective

Independence, Each & Every citizen have to celebrate, especially girls. They (women) have to be proud to born in this Independent India, which gives complete freedom to them.

In India, Womens are safe than the other countries. In this country, all the mens & womens are brothers and sisters, they take care each other.

We are living in the dreams of freedom fighters. India is being safest country not only to its' citizens but also for outsiders. (Did we got Independence?).

Independent in my Perspective

Independent is a state of being free from external control, influence or reliance. To me, independence is about having the freedom to make my own choices, decisions and mistakes. It's about being self-sufficient, confident and accountable for my own life.

Growing up, I was always encouraged to think for myself and not rely on others for validation or approval. I have learned to trust my instincts, take calculated risks and embrace uncertainty.

In today's world, independence is more important than ever. For me, independence is a mindset, a choice and a journey.
