The Department of Microbiology, organized an awareness program entitled, “Appropriate disposal of sanitary napkins in college premises”. The programme aimed to sensitize the girl students of the department regarding the importance of proper disposal methods for menstrual hygiene products. The environmental and health risks associated with improper disposal was emphasized. The health risks, house keeping staffs are predisposed to, due to improper disposal was highlighted. Further, attention was drawn towards the environmental hazards due to napkin associated blocked drainage. Finally, girls were stressed to wrap used sanitary napkins in paper or disposal bags before discarding them in the designated bins.
